The changing from horse to electric and cable power has not only greatly benefited the traveling public, but the earnings of the companies have shown a material increase. The average daily earnings of all the street-car lines in the city in 1800 were 89,092, and in 1891 they were $11,055, an increase of $1,763, or 19 per cent. Very few lines show a decrease in the earnings, and these lines, with but two exceptions, are using horses and mules.

Progress in St. Louis. There is every indication that the present year will be one of unexampled growth and material improvement for Louis. Not only are real estate values looking up, and thousands of dollars' worth of property changing hands daily, but there are scores of contracts being let every day for more or less costly dwellings and business
